Customer Excellence Manager

Avalara

I joined Avalara when we were a startup company back in 2012 on Bainbridge Island, WA. I spent eight years in New Sales, educating thousands of companies to automate their manual compliance processes with the first cloud-based solution on the market, AvaTax. I've been on the Customer Excellence team for the last three years supporting customer escalations & critical situations. When I'm not delighting our customers, I enjoy going to see live music (most recently, The Rolling Stones & Jose Feliciano), taking & teaching group fitness classes, traveling near & far (Iceland is on the bucket list!) & spending time with my two adult children, my partner of 10 years and my 89-year-old Mom. I've lived in the Seattle for area for 35 years and am frequently reminded of the natural beauty of the Pacific Northwest-the mountains, the water, the rain and the green that surrounds us! It really is stunning!

Manage nexus obligations with AvaTax

Understanding Nexus

Knowing where you should pay taxes is the first step

You're required to collect and pay taxes on transactions made in that state.

MARKET-PLACE If your company operates and has another physical presence in a state, you likely have to register there and start paying taxes made on transactions in that state.

If you sell your products and services in a marketplace to other states, the marketplace is likely responsible for collecting and paying those taxes.

AvaTax helps you monitor where your company is approaching economic threshold

What is economic nexus?

Economic nexus is a tax collection obligation imposed on sellers based on their level of economic activity within a state.

Unlike physical presence, it is based entirely on sales revenue, transaction volume, or both.

46 out of the 50 states have adopted economic nexus laws (thresholds vary).

A current look at economic nexus thresholds by state

$500,000 $250,000

$100,000 or 200 transactions

$100,000

Does not have economic nexus law

- Connecticut's threshold is gross receipts of $100,000 and 200 retail transactions
- New York's threshold is $500,000
  and 100 transactions
- Certain states exclude resale, services, digital, SaaS, and more.

Product Taxability – Best Practices

- > To use AvaTax, you need to tell us about the products and services you sell
- Map the items you sell to Avalara tax codes in AvaTax or in your connected business application.
- > AvaTax gives you the ability to create a custom tax code you are unable to locate a tax code that matches the item you sell
- If an item isn't mapped to an Avalara tax code, we'll assume:
  - > It is fully taxable at the normal rate
  - > It is tangible personal property

Manage reporting, returns, and reconciling with AvaTax

Using AvaTax's reporting features

Avalara has powerful reporting features. These reports help you to reconcile data, file returns, and otherwise use information from your transactions.

If you want to reuse a report with certain criteria, save yourself some time by adding that report to your favorites.

Here are a few things to remember about reports:

Each report category has a number of reports that can be further customized to provide you with the information you need.

Reports that you view in the Avalara platform have hyperlinks to other reports and transactional detail. Reports that you export contain all available information included in transactions, depending on the filters you choose for the reports.

Using AvaTax's reporting features

Depending on the type of report you choose, different filters will appear.

For example, if you file quarterly rather than monthly, you can enter a custom date range. You can also filter by state.

If you plan on running the report again, remember to save it for easy access!

Why Reconcile?

- > Reconciliation is the process of finding and resolving unexpected tax amounts before you approve your returns for us to file.
- > With AvaTax, you can run reports to find and resolve discrepancies between AvaTax and your business application.
  - > Start with top-level reports. If you find a discrepancy, drill down until you find the source of the problem.
- > This is a critical step that needs to occur every month even if you file quarterly or annually.

Using AvaTax Returns & Reconciling features

To reconcile and defend against audits, it's important to remember how everything occurs.

When a transaction occurs, it's entered into your business application which sends it to us and then we calculate the tax. At the end of each filing period we use the transaction info in AvaTax to prepare your tax returns. Make sure all amounts match. If they do, then consider yourself reconciled. If not, you need to figure out why.

 Run a report to find the source of your discrepancy.
 Here, the sales tax top line report is a good place to start.

2. Compare the amounts in the report with the ones in your business application.

Edit or void amounts until they match 3. Double-check the tax calculated matches the amount on your returns

4. Manage and approve returns page to quickly see the total amount due for all your returns
